Gordon is chairman

SJA ball is Feb. 22

Feb. 22 has been selected as the date for the annual St. Joseph's Carnival Ball, it was announced this week by Leo W. Gordon, president of the sponsoring organization.

Ray Gordon has accepted the duties of general chairman for the event, traditionally the gala social affair of the year in Bay St. Louis. Serving as captain will be Dan M. Russell, Jr.

Committee chairman for the ball include Sam L. Favre, Jr., port; Robert L. Hamilton, floor; Burton Haas, Jr., music; R. M. Prigac, lighting; Warren Carver and Edward Murtagh, tickets.

Duties assigned to the SJA parents club, of which Mrs. Andy Becker is president, include program, publicity, ticket sales, entertainment and theme.

Mrs. Dan M. Russell, Jr., will assist with the entertainment and Mrs. Roger Boh will head the committee to assist ladies of the court.

Service on the steering committee for the ball are many of the men who have been active in the event through the years, including many of the past kings and officers. The late Dr. James A. Evans was ball captain for many years and was largely instrumental for establishment of the local celebration while the late Charles G. Moreau was king of the first ball in 1934.

Other members of the steering committee are T. T. Robin, Roger Boh, John A. Seaside, Michael Haas, Dr. Otto Mollere, Dr. John Griffin, John G. McCloskey, Arthur J. Chapman, Jr., Norman Renshaw, Russell Chapman, E. J. Arceneaux, N. L. Carter and Andy J. Becker. Seal has been president of the ball since its inception.

Chicapoula picks dance for theme

Wonderful World of Dancing will be the theme of this year's Mardi Gras parade staged by the Krewe of Chicapoula Feb. 26 under auspices of the Bay Central Parent-Teacher Assn.

Committee chairman met last Friday night with Paul Raymond, P-TA president, to formulate plans for soliciting business firms for support and mailing cards to all schools and organizations asking them to participate.

A $5 entrance fee will be charged all business firms while schools and other non-profit groups may take part free.

Proceeds from the parade and ball afterwards will go for sorely needed playground equipment in all Bay-Central elementary schools.

Anyone wishing to enter a float is to phone Mrs. Leroy Luke at HO7-6391 as soon as possible.

Revise assessment

TAX LINES LENGTHEN - The crowd is getting larger by the day in the tax collector's office as citizens line up to pay property and poll taxes before the Feb. 1 deadline. Late rush is expected to be bigger than usual this year with elections in the summer. Sheriff Gerald V. Price said some provision for Saturday traffic may be made next week to accommodate out of town residents.

Acreage fixed at $8 and $12

The hike in the county acreage assessment, approved last Monday by the board of supervisors on a 3-2 vote, was revised this week to a $8 and $12 formula by the same margin.

The change, which will be the basis for taxation next Jan. 1, was voted after the board heard a lengthy protest to "an unfair 67 per cent increase" by Frank Davis, forestry supervisor for St. Regis Paper Co.'s Crosby Forest land in the county, and strong urging for an "equalization" course by George Dehmer, ad valorem supervisor for the State Tax Commission.

After the two had stated their views, Beat 2 Supervisor L. M. Frierson moved to rescind the Jan. 7 order increasing to $10 the present $3.50 per acre assessment on marsh land and $6 on timber land. He was seconded by Charles Lavinghouse of Beat 3. This carried unanimously after it was indicated by Tax Assessor George Hatzemann the county might be able to pick up the revenue loss from the NASA test site acquisition from new subdivisions and buildings this year.

Frierson then proposed a $8 per acre assessment on uncultivated land—that presently classified as marsh and timber lands, and $12 on cultivated or farm land. This was $1 less in each case than the balancing formula suggested by the tax commission representative, H. G. Dean of Beat 1 seconded and board president R. G. Hubbard, Jr., of Beat 5 joined him and Frierson in voting for the new plan while Lavinghouse and James Neacase of Beat 4, the two who opposed the first upward revision plan, repeated their nays.

Davis told the supervisors as Monday's meeting opened that St. Regis was willing to pay its just and fair share of county taxes but his firm did not consider it fair for the board to "take one segment of the county and raise it by 67 per cent."

Referring to editorial comment in the Sea Coast Echo last week dealing with certain inequalities, he declared that International Paper Co. actually did not get $100 an acre from the federal government for its acreage within the NASA test site because of the timber (taxes on this are paid through the state timber severance law when it is cut and the government bought full title to mineral rights which the supervisors do not assess. Taking all this into consideration, IP only got about $30 an acre for the bare land, Davis continued.

The St. Regis forester said he talked last week with Frierson who had explained to him the county need for more tax revenue. Davis said he recognized this but the board's approach would influence most people living in the NASA buffer zone to sell out to the government, rather than taking a lease, and that land would be taken completely off the tax rolls. He urged the supervisors to rescind the $10 plan and start again, raising assessment to $12 on timber land.

Tom Logue, newly appointed community development chairman for the Jaycees, offered that organization's assistance toward improving the Courthouse. He said they had planned to paint the interior but on consultation with a plasterer were advised of falling plaster danger.

Bay schools get pro for planning

Superintendent Joe D. McCulloch was authorized by the board of trustees of Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Monday night to obtain qualified consultants at a cost not to exceed $1,000 to advise what steps should be taken toward expansion of the school system.

The action was taken on motion of Trustee Maurice Artigues, seconded by Theodore Thomas, after McCulloch outlined some of the present non-critical problems of classroom space. In view of the growth during the last year and the anticipation of even more in the next few years, the trustees unanimously approved getting started on planning by engaging objective professional assistance.

Hurricane Fence Co., represented locally by Waldo W. Otis, was awarded the contract for construction of two fences at the new stadium on its low bid of $5,101.48. Other bids were Hagan Fence Co., Mobile, $7,034.45; ABC Fence Industries, Mobile, $5,683.34; V. J. Piazza, $5,981; and William Edgar Wright Co., Centerville, $6,987. Otis assured the board that work would get underway on the fences within two weeks, weather permitting.

Paul J. Reynaud, who appeared at last month's meeting to ask that the Oleoan Society be permitted to distribute New Testaments to students at Bay High but then did not know all the details of the society's offer, returned and reported the King James version would be the one given, that the society would give them to students from the fifth through 12th grades or such grades as the board authorized, and the method of their distribution would be up to the board except that the formal presentation must be by the Oleoans. Although all trustees expressed sympathy for the project to distribute the New Testaments, they felt the large local Roman

Revised HGH addition plans sent to Jackson

A revised schematic plan for the proposed addition to Hancock General Hospital was scheduled for presentation Wednesday in Jackson to Foster C. Fowler, executive secretary of the State Commission on Hospital Care. Thomas O. Logue, hospital administrator, told the board of supervisors Monday that Fowler had thrown out the first plan and the new design, incorporating suggestions of the state official and medical staff, would cut out 10 existing beds and add 35 for a total capacity of 55.

The addition would extend back from the present nurses' station, rather than at the south end of the building, and a second story would not be permitted because of insufficient grounds to meet state requirements. Space for an increased septic field also prohibited later expansion, Logue said. Were the city already to have a sewerage system, it would reduce cost of the project between $18,000 and $25,000, he added. Consideration is being given to including a chapel and snack bar in the expansion plan, the administrator reported, and the hospital auxiliary is expected to seek public contributions for that purpose.

Logue also disclosed that the state commission is in the process of raising the hospital's priority from B to A after several trips to Jackson by local officials so that even if the accelerated Public Works Administration aid is turned down Hancock General can get Hill-Burman money.

The hospital has been operating beyond its capacity in recent weeks and three discarded beds from the old hospital finally were returned up to ease the situation, Logue said many of the patients are newcomers to the area. A number of old-timers who used

Hancock defeats Harrison

Gunning for another state championship, Hancock North Central's Hawks gained sweet revenge over arch-rival Harrison Central at the Lyman school's gym Tuesday night with a narrow 52-50 victory after leading all the way.

Coch Billy Sills termed it the team's best combined effort in some time.

The Red Rebels had edged the Hawks earlier in the current season at the North Central gym and since then the two stellar squads had managed to stay out of each other's way on the invitational journey circuit.

Richard Cuevas paced the Hawk effort with 16 points while Lionel Hoda tossed in 14. Gale Farmer topped the Rebels with 15. North Central ran up a six point lead before the Harrison boys could score. They led 20-10 after the first quarter, 32-26 at half and 47-37 after the third until Harrison Central managed to narrow the gap with 13 points in the final quarter.

The tables were also reversed in the girls' encounter, the Rebels winning this time, 43-37. Their attack was virtually a one-girl effort however as one-shooter Jerry Evans scored 34 points. The other two Harrison Central

Manny would lift 2¢ seawall gas tax

The board of supervisors tabled action Monday on a proposal by Beat 5 Supervisor R. G. Hubbard, Jr., to remove two cents from the county's three-cent tax on gasoline for seawall maintenance, which seem likely to provide some election year sports.

After Hubbard reviewed the status of seawall bonds and called for elimination of two cents under Sec. 1815, Charles Lavinghouse of Beat 3 immediately inquired if the seawall could be operated on only one cent.

"Well you can't cut grass at $4,000 a month but you can maintain the seawall for one cent," Hubbard replied. "There's no need keeping on a tax for something after there's enough money to pay off the notes." He added that of the last $225,000 spent through the seawall fund some had gone for repairs. He noted his plan has nothing to do with the state's three-cent tax on gas for the seawalls of the three coastal counties of which they get back 1 3/4 cents.

"When you were using the seawall funds all yourself, we never heard anything like this," muttered L. M. Frierson of Beat 2. "It wasn't paid for then," Hubbard answered. He said the county had been paying on the

Drain pipes to protect water pressure

With the threat of more freezing weather on the way, the city administration this week called on all householders to cooperate in maintaining adequate water pressure in the mains.

City Commissioner of Public Utilities J. Cyril Glover requested householders to cut off the water main as it enters the house or at the street when there is danger of pipes freezing. "If you can't do either of these, just leave a trickle running through the taps," he urged.

Too many persons early this week apparently turned on their taps full-force to avert broken pipes, he said, and had crippled the city's supply. Particularly hit were Bay High School, North Bay Elementary and Valena C. Jones Schools. Glover noted additional danger, which could hit anyone, in event of fire and inadequate water pressure for the fire fighters.

Leakage was a chemical thing

Ask NC wing bids

The county board of education at two sessions in the last week called on United Gas Co. to help relieve its leaking roof problem at Hancock North Central School and called for bids on a four or six room addition to the plant.

At least some of the questions about North Central's roof which have been bothering the board ever since the school opened in 1959 appeared to have been solved by Dalton B. Shourds, architect who was requested to inspect it and advise.

He found that the water leaks which have become acute of late are a matter of chemistry. Wall heaters in the classrooms require one or more vents each which has made the roof a mass of them. Normally, Shourds explained, it's impossible to rust galvanized iron in the midst of a 140-acre field but because of the type and height of heater the butane gas reacts like acid from a chemical factory next door and rains fast adds to the corrosion. Unless neutral gas is made available, the system will have a $30,000 sheet metal job in its hands. On his advice, the board formally requested United Gas to survey and proceed with the necessary line to serve the school. County Superintendent K. G. McCarty observed he had unsuccessful talks with United some time ago and noted Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co.'s lines went

Annual camellia show of Bay-Waveland Garden Club has been cancelled for the second straight year as the early freeze heavily damaged most outdoor blooms and this week's low temperatures probably finished up the job.

Decision not to hold the show was made by the membership at its meeting last Thursday.

After Mrs. Ben Hille, chairman, noted two New Orleans area shows already had been halted by the freeze damage. The local show had been scheduled Feb. 23-24.

Dr. Walter C. Hays, leading horticulturist here, had advised it was doubtful there would be any exhibition blooms left and the vote to cancel the show was made reluctantly. Hope was expressed the club could have a small show for the membership at a later date if the buds held up.

Emphasis was made on the club's anti-litter program, particularly in preparation for the spring pilgrimage in March. Cooperation of the general public in being caught and Mrs. Ruth Woods Linderbach, beautification and pilgrimage chairman, said she planned to meet this week with local merchants to collect their support.

Purchase by the club was authorized of one anti-litter container similar to those in use at Frosty Inn if the city fathers approve its use in a public place.

The program on landscape design was presented by Mrs. Joseph Hughes, home demonstration agent, and she was questioned closely by her audience on various planting suggestions. She reminded the club of the adage that "the condition of the yard shows the condition of the house inside" and cautioned that women are not inclined to enough pruning whereas men frequently prune to excess. She recommended Tidilava type of Bermuda as been a lawn grass not bothered by chinch bugs.

Miss Veronica Mohr gave the paper on horticulture and winners of the orange exhibits were Mrs. Myron Smith, blue; Mrs. Hilma Ogden, red; Mrs. Frank Embrey, yellow; and Mrs. Hugh Miller, white.

Mrs. J. E. Ervin reported on the enthusiastic response to the junior garden club Christmas show and urged it be an annual affair. She thanked Mrs. H. A. Ozanham and Mrs. W. W. Baltar for their help as judges.

A social hour followed at the Garden Center with Mrs. Alfred McCaleb as hostess, assisted by Mesdames Ervin, Herbert Finlay, Harold Hichs, Joseph Kern, Jr., B. J. Pezera, John Prithett, R. W. Riggs, E. C. Strong and Harry Wardall.

Teen Times

In contrast to the mad activity the past few weeks things at present appear dead, dead, dead. Serious sports events seem to be about the main topic of conversation. Several local boxers continued victorious in a bout in Mobile last Saturday night. Hank Battistoni, Emilio Bourgeois, Johnny Favre and Peter Maghera were among winners. The next match takes place Saturday night here.

All local high schools with the exception of North Central which had a conflicting schedule, entered the annual Harrison Central Invitational basketball tournament at Lumberton, Bay High girls and Stanlaus were eliminated in heartbreakers by the identical score of 39-38. The girls' basketball team from the Rockaways to the Passes, Susie Dearing and Patry Harver led Bay High's scoring with 15 and 14 points. Nodie Linder with 13 and Curtis Mathews, 10 were high for the Rocks. Richard Schaefer's 28 points marked Bay High boys who led the way to win over Stone High 66-52. Leroy Luke hit the basket for 14 and Ross Mauriel killed 10.

St. Joseph's Gold Jays and Bay High Tigers went down in semi-finals. Jo Mary Artiques killed 23 of S.J.A.'s 34 points, but St. Martin's rolled over the local girls by 27 - final 61-34. Richard Schaefer's accuracy earned him a berth on the all tournament team, the only local player so honored. Bay High lost to Harrison Central 7-64.

We'll wish Gretchen Zeigler a very happy birthday! She celebrated at a birthday skating party at the Waveland Roller rink Jan. 7. Older sister Carolyn and Pat Fanning assisted in serving her 17 guests the large blue cake decorated with bright red roses, soft drinks, candy and the like.

Get well wishes go to Carolyn Damians who has been suffering with complications as the result of surgery last month and to Steve Kidd who underwent a series of test in New Orleans last week. Glad to note both are apparently well on the road to recovery.

Jo Ann Smith is proudly displaying a lovely birthstone ring - her gift from Kenny Develle.

Janet Trapani has been too occupied with studies at Southeastern in Hammond to return home since Christmas - however we hear she managed to get in a weekend visit with Terri Gladi in New Orleans. Terri, daughter of tv sports personality Hap Gladi and a frequent visitor to the coast, was recently selected by the male student body as "Itor's roar" of the week from the Lionesses - a group corresponding with PRC's String of Pearls.

A very happy birthday greeting to Susan Pucheu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Pucheu who was sweet 16, on Jan. 12. She celebrated the event at a party at the Parish Hall. Guests included Gregory Cubas, Joey Pucheu, Linda Parker, Jane Parker, Dot Nease, Carol Ann Bourgeois, Emma Normand, Eileen Sanchez, Randy Perkins, Lydia Dillmann, Billy Barnes, Larry Barnes, Diane Presnell, Sherry Karl, Ed Blaise, Connie Nease, Gregory Hinkabraman, Mike Crawford, Linda Doll, Pat Elliot, Pat Depree, Richard Warren, Danna Lynn Johnson, Irving Higgins, Roy Washburn, Diane Avrick, Yvonne Schwartz and Bobby Heitzman.

In addition to Pseudo Sue Weber who we mentioned last week, Carol Western, Alvin Hobbs, James LaPoint and Barry Stevens also made the dean's list at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Ellen Western spent the week-end at Christ School P-TA.

Plans will be made and committees appointed for Christ Episcopal Day School annual Spring Festival at the monthly P-TA meeting at the school at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Clear poll tax complications in Feb. 5 vote

If you plan on voting in the special election Feb. 5 on the constitutional amendment, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 101, redistricting the legislature of the state, better bring your poll tax receipts for 1961 and 1962 just as though a primary election was involved. This would appear to be the advice given County Registrar Lamar Otis by a letter from the attorney general's office.

The date for the election is what has complicated things. Since the 1962 poll tax can be paid on or before Feb. 1, it will be impossible for the election officials and registrar to receive the list of 1962 payors from the tax collector in time to revise the tax rolls five days prior to Feb. 5 as called for by Sec. 3239 of the Mississippi Code.

The registrar was advised that the election commissioners should meet five days before the election as required by state law and revise the registration and poll books from the information before them not including payment of 1962 poll taxes. Thus persons otherwise qualifying, who paid their 1960 and 1961 poll taxes, would presumably be on the list, but those who did not pay in 1960 but have paid poll taxes for 1961 and 1962 would not be listed and might not be permitted to vote unless they bring their tax receipts.

rarely criticize anything canine, but there is a limit to the freedom which should be allowed any animal, large or small, if your pup chases anything, either fence him in or keep him chained until you are free to accompany him on his outings.

Sports notes

About all we can tell you is that after a good strong cold front (and just how strong can a front get) the water will allegedly clear and trout should bite like mad.

A very happy birthday Mrs. Alvin Smith—she celebrated at her Jeff Davis home Sunday, Jan. 13.

Agnes and Bill: Yennie proudly returned home with their brand new daughter Tuesday. The young lady to be christened Jeanine Agnes, arrived several weeks premature at Hancock General last Saturday weighing a little over five pounds. She is their second child and first daughter.

Fire outlets

Clermont-Lakeshore Civic Assn. is sponsoring a benefit at the Youth Center Saturday at 8 p.m. Funds obtained will be used for water connections to insure better fire protection on the area. The Waveland Volunteer Fire department answers calls in Clermont, but needs more outlets to attach fire hoses.

Mrs. Bob Sciviques's small dog drew admiring glances as it trotted down Main Street nuzzling in a bright red sweater. Get well wishes go to Dan Picton (he's Miriam Damien's brother), who had major surgery at Hancock General Tuesday.

Two local residents are obviously enjoying the chill—Lois Kottmann took a winter of the opportunity to wear her lovely new fur-trimmed coat and John Weathers is all smiles as his dry-rs are in use constantly—no one wants to freeze while hanging their washing outside.

LATE FISHING BULLETIN—Joe Cook Kellar caught a four and one-half pound green trout last Friday—we asked Dec Elliott what he'd been doing the past few days and he informed us it's just too cold to fish!

Vivian Simms has returned to her Clermont Harbor home after a two week holiday visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. R. A. Cushing and seven children at Robins AFB

Harry hears ... A look at '63 Hawks

Hancock North Central's Hawks were rudely shocked 67-64 by Biloxi Saturday night in Biloxi, but were undoubtedly looking ahead to Tuesday's "everything-goes" contest with Harrison Central. North Central, losers earlier in the season to Harrison Central to account for the only other defeat on their record, hoped to gain revenge for that setback at Lyman Tuesday.

The Hawks and both other Hancock County boys teams have come up with above-average quintets, and all will be in action during next week's Bay High Invitational.

North Central has claimed two tournament championships in two attempts; Bay High, with a 7-4 slate, has lost only to North Central (once) and Harrison Central (three); and St. Stanislaus, despite a mediocre 6-7 record has a team capable of beating either one of the other two on a given night.

Berlin Ladner, North Central's tall junior forward, has lived up to pre-season expectations and is a prime all-state candidate. Ladner, though prone to make mistakes, does enough spectacular things to more than make up for his errors. Perhaps the main cog and most under-rated member of the North Central varsity, however, is their steady center Lionel Hoda. Hoda, a senior, has the most delicate shooting touch on the squad, and usually is the big man in the clutch.

Guards Richard Cuevas and Jimmy Favre, and junior forward Eugene Ladner have also shown remarkable shooting form. Cuevas, a defensive and ball-control specialist last year, has come up with some excellent scoring games, and Favre and Ladner have both hit with dead-eye accuracy at times from outside.

Prospective on the Tigers

Bay High would be undefeated if it weren't for Harrison Central and North Central. It takes a tremendous team to have a good record in this area because with so many games and tournaments the same teams sometimes play each other four, five, or more times a season. Bay High has already played Harrison Central three times and are entered along with the Red Rebels in the Gulf Coast Conference and Sub-District Tournaments.

Richard Schaefer, the Bengals' 6'2" forward, has really come around. The Tigers have in desperate need of a take-charge guy, and it looks as if Schaefer is ready to fill the opening. He can shoot as good as anyone in the conference from within 15 feet of the hoop, is a strong rebounder, and plays good defensive and floor ball. If Schaefer grows a couple more inches, he'll make somebody a good college ball-player. He has the quickness and good reflexes necessary in addition to shooting ability.

Guards Charles Bennett and Leroy Luke have bolstered the Bengals' shooting attack with long one-handers. Bennett led the team for a time in scoring, and Luke has come along rapidly. Tall sophomore Ross Maurigi hasn't scored as high as predicted, but is getting better with every game. Teddo Thomas, headed for LSU as a grid star, uses his ruggedness to control the boards and manages to get a steady six to 10 points a game.

Credit due the Rockchaws

Stanislaus has a much better team than lots of folk think. The Rocks, under Brother Ralph's coaching, have won three of their last four, losing only to Pass Christian by a scant two points after leading all the way.

Probably the biggest asset the Rockchaws have in good team balance. The team isn't as tall as many area quints, however, and this is a major handicap.

Center Wayne Carr, forwards Moe Scaffidi and Curtis Matherne, and guards Ned Ladner and Ned Heath have all hit in double figures on occasion. The Rocks play a deliberate brand of ball, and when their shooting touch is on, they can be tough. Stanislaus will be out for revenge against Pass High when the Bay High tourney opens next Thursday, and if the Rocks prevail the long-awaited Stanislaus-Bay High match will become a reality.

Boxing glory returns to Bay

Five local boxers have been entered in the South Mississippi Golden Gloves Championships next week in Hattiesburg, as a news story in the Echo relates this week. We think this is a real indication of how far the boxing game has come in our coastal Mississippi town.

We certainly have to take our hat off to Buck Price, who has returned Bay St. Louis to the high position it held in boxing circles for many years.

On occasion we have come out against the fight game, and for good reason. However, when run right and fair, boxing is as good a competitive sport as there is. We're convinced that Buck Price and his associates are doing an exceptional job, as evidenced by the long line of victories posted by the Bay club and by the good sportsmanship shown by all.

Price has lined up one good card after another and in addition is introducing the best amateurs in Mississippi and Alabama in special event matches. Several ring pros and top amateurs have visited matches recently in Bay St. Louis.

Now that a seemingly suitable site has been found, the National Guard Armory, and with continuing interest, it looks like the boxing game has come back to stay. If you want further proof, go out and see the matches set for Saturday night. If you haven't been attending regularly, you'll be surprised!

SSC boosts win record over week

Improving their 1962-63 basketball record to 5-7, the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws won two of three contests last week, splitting a pair of games in the Harrison Central Tournament before edging Sacred Heart of Hattiesburg in the Stanislaus gym Sunday afternoon.

Brother Ralph's Rocks won a 49-45 victory over the Hattiesburg school Sunday, and registered a share of the Mississippi Golden Gloves.

Five local boxers have been entered to participate in the annual South Mississippi Golden Gloves Boxing Championships Jan. 22-24 in Hattiesburg.

Rocks smother Kern

St. Stanislaus basketball teams overwhelmed Kern School's fledgling quintet at Pass Christian Tuesday night, the varsity winning 60-13 and the JV's posting a 63-10 triumph.

Brother Ralph used his first string only for the opening quarter and in an effort to keep the score down put in the second string the rest of the way. Chris Bradford was high scorer for the Rocks with 21 points.

Mont Rhodes led the junior varsity with nine points.

The Rocks have a crucial game Friday night with Notre Dame as they endeavor to hold onto their first place tie with Sacred Heart for the lead in the Mississippi Catholic Conference's southern division. Should both Stanislaus and Sacred Heart beat Notre Dame, they'll have to play off for the south title, the winner meeting the north champion for state honors.

St. Martin's top Gold Jays in semi-finals

After winning their way into the semifinals, St. Joseph Academy's Gold Jays were eliminated from the Harrison Central Basketball Tournament 61-34 by undefeated St. Martin Saturday afternoon. St. Martin won the tourney, beating Pass High in the finals.

The Gold Jays trailed the Yellow Jacket 18-4 after one quarter and never got back into the game. SJA was behind 28-14 at the half, and trailed 46-20 entering the fourth stanza. Jo Mary Ardugas, as usual, provided almost the entire scoring thrust for the locals. She totaled 23 points.

SJA downed D'Elerville in first-round play. They pulled away to a 12-6 first period lead, 19-15 halftime advantage, and 28-22 third quarter lead. Again, Jo Mary led the way, tallying 28 markers to maintain her season's average of almost 30 points per game.

1 teams entered in Bay High invitational

With 11 entries, the 27th Bay High Invitational Basketball Tournament unfolds Thursday night January 24 at the Harrison Central gymnasium.

Harrison Central's girls will be put on the line the day after tomorrow, when they won last year's tournament. The Harrison Central girls will not defend their crown, as this year's event, though the first in many years, is not for good teams, Bay High, St. Stanislaus, Hancock North, Long Beach, Pass Christian, and Ocean Springs. The girls entered in the tournament are Bay High, St. Joseph, Pass Christian, Harrison Central, and Harrison Central will field girls' teams. The North Central Hawks, and the Poplarville and Biloxi March of Dimes Tournament and losers only to Harrison Central, draw the favorite's role in boys play.

Pass Christian rates the top girls choice. The Pirates came with exceptional strength at guard, have been finalists in several tournaments this season only to lose to St. Martin's undefeated Yellow Jackets in the championship game.

St. Martin is the only Gulf Coast Conference school not entered in at least one division. The Yellowjackets were originally scheduled to participate in the event, but changed their plans. S.J.A. and St. Stanislaus are the non-Gulf Coast Conference schools taking part.

Opening first-round play next Thursday will be Long Beach and Ocean Springs boys at 6 p.m. Bay High and North Central girls will collide at 7:15 and St. Stanislaus and Pass Christian girls conclude the opening night program at 8:30.

The first semifinal match Friday at 5:30 p.m. finds the Pass High girls pitted against Harrison Central's defending champs. Bay High faces the Pass High-Stanislaus winner at 6:45 in the boys bracket. SJA meets the Bay High-North Central girls winner at 8:30, and North Central's boys play the Long Beach-Ocean Springs survivor at 9:15.

Finals in the girls bracket will begin Saturday night at 7:30 and the boys championship battle will follow immediately. Trophies will be awarded following the completion of the final games.

Biloxi dumps Hawks

Falling way behind in the opening minutes, Hancock North Central's Hawks went down to their second defeat of the season Saturday night at Biloxi, losing 67-64 despite a good fourth quarter comeback. The Hawks squandered past Pass Christian 48-42 at North Central Friday night in Gulf Coast Conference play.

In Saturday's foul-marred contest, the Hawks were headed 20-9, 33-23, and 55-44 by periods before rallying in the final stanza to fall just short of victory. Lionel Hoda, the club's hot-shooting center, was the only Hawk to foul out but several others got into quick foul trouble as 22 were called on the Hancock Comtians.

Richard Cuevas scored 17 points to lead the Hawks in a losing cause. Berlin Loder and Hoda both added 13.

Pass Christian gave North Central a hard time for the second time this season Friday, losing only after leading much of the way. The Pirates grabbed a 15-10 first quarter advantage, were tied 27-27 at halftime, and the Hawks pulled in front 37-34 in the third period.

Berlin Loder and Hoda had 14 and 13 markers, respectively, for Coach Billy Sills' quintet.

The Hawks fell before the Pass High lasses Friday 35-22. Valerie Malley scored 10 points for North Central but her team never threatened.

The Hawks played Harrison Central Tuesday night, the boys face Long Beach there Friday night, and both boys and girls host St. Martin next Tuesday in the North Central gym.

Schaefer stars but BHS beat at Lyman

Still suffering from Centralitis, the Bay High Tigers were eliminated from the Harrison Central Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday afternoon by the host school in semifinal competition. The Tigerettes were tripped by Stone High in first-round play.

Richard Schaefer of Bay High was named to the all-tournament team and was voted top playmaker in the tourney. Schaefer averaged over 30 points per game in the event.

The powerful Red Rebels piled up a big first quarter lead and held on for a 77-64 semifinal win over Coach Wilmer Seymour's Bengals, then went on to top Pass Christian for the title. Harrison Central led 26-14, 43-26, and 62-45 by quarters.

Schaefer scored 33 points for Bay High and guard Leroy Luke added 10. Forward Ross Maurig, playing an outstanding floor game, chipped in with nine points.

The Tigers used a good first half to get by Stone in first-round play. Bay High won 66-52, leading 16-11, 39-24, and 50-35 at the rest breaks. Schaefer scored 28, Luke 14, and Maurig 12 for the Bengals.

The Tigerettes and Stone's semier fought tooth-and-nail down to the wire in their game. Stone holding on for a 40-39 triumph. Bay High took an 8-6 first quarter advantage, trailed 17-16 at halftime, and was on the short end of a 30-26 third quarter score.

Sue Doering led the Tigerettes scoring attack with 15 points and Pass Carver also hit double-figures with 14.

Both Bay High teams took the early part of this week off for mid-term tests. The Tigers will play Ocean Springs there Friday and host Long Beach Tuesday, both in Gulf Coast Conference affairs. The Tigerettes will not return to action until next week's Bay High Invitational.

Marine product notes

Silent season is outlook on boating

By BILL BARBOUR Editor,

Merino Product magazine

Look Ma, no noise.

Don't listen now, but the sound you may not hear next summer will be that of an outboard motor—muted and muffled. If we can believe what we hear from the motor manufacturers, it may even take some kind of a special-take with particularly sharp hearing to tell the difference between an old licker at full throttle and the wife's sewing machine. Like it or not, the 1963 boating year is going to be a quiet one.

If your favorite sound is the explosive roar of an outboard motor, you may have to look elsewhere next summer for a new favorite sound. If you are happiest with the racket of a cranky old motor drowning out all the other sounds of summer, you've got a tin ear according to the manufacturers, and you're in for a dull season.

The manufacturers also will quickly remind you that their motors aren't cranky anymore, and not nearly so noisy.

Once upon a time SILENCE PLEASE was considered the private property of public libraries and hospital zones. Not anymore, it seems to have worked its way into the hearts (and advertising slogans) of the outboard motor people. In fact, if the motor makers have their way, and there is every reason to believe that they will, outboard motors may become the most silent sport since mah jong played on a blanket.

Perhaps this emphasis on silence is being exaggerated slightly here—but only slightly. A hefty stack of press releases on the 1963 crop of outboards give evidence that the motor manufacturers mean business; quiet business. Although silence is not the headline feature in any of these releases, it is the one feature common to all of them. Listen, if you will, to just a few phrases dug out of the stack at random.

"Balanced manifold system for minimum air intake sound; better insulation; jetprop exhaust that fires gases through the prop hub for quieter operation," (Mercury).

"Neoprene suspension, acoustical leg chamber," (West Bend).

"Powerheads isolated on rubber mounts; quiet high spiral gears; sound deadening fiber glass shrouds; special air intake to eliminate whine," (Evinrude).

"Complete vibration isolation; integral intake silencer," (Gale).

And they go on, and on, and on. Obviously the motor manufacturers mean for the 1963 boating year to go down in history as the "silent season."

Of course this trend to silence is not really new. Long strides have been made in this direction, particularly since the immediate post-war years. New engineering techniques, better production facilities, and improved materials have contributed to the muffled march of progress. And after talking to most of the manufacturers over the past several months, one gets the impression that silence is here to stay.

As a crusty old salt who has resisted, often quite vocally, most of the new and "zesty" boating wrinkles unfolded in recent years, it would be in keeping with character to raise my voice here in loud protest. But I can't. Although an outboard motor that sounds more like an electric razor than it sounds like an outboard motor may jar the traditionalists, I for one shall not mourn the loss of noise. I won't even miss it.
